

Finance and Budget team

I was the only one on the Finance and Budget team, and at first, everyone thought it was going to be a total drag. But I actually loved it. I really enjoyed working with numbers. It was super fun and challenging at the same time.

I got to work with almost every team in the class, and they were all super cool. I learned a lot from watching how they worked and how they solved problems.

I think the most important thing I learned from this experience is the importance of teamwork. Everyone on the project had to work together to make it successful. We had to communicate effectively, be flexible, and be willing to compromise. This seminar also instilled in me a passion for problem-solving and collaboration. It was a valuable lesson that I will carry with me in my future endeavors.

I'm so glad I chose to be on the Finance team. It was a great experience and I learned a lot.
